FRIDAY NIGHT

The author would like to thank the Canada Council for the Arts,
without whose help and assistance
this comic was produced.

Victoria, BC.

Central Command,
Thursday, June 29,
5:47 p.m.

Let's smoke
a joint!

You always
say that.

And has it
ever been a
bad idea?

Canada Day is
this weekend.
Have you
come up with
a plan
of action?

Well, I have an idea, but
it requires
knowledge
I do not yet
possess ...

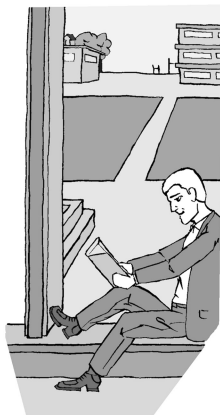

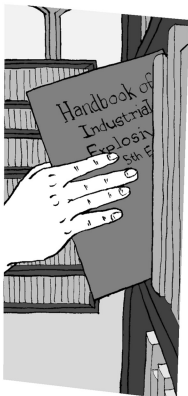

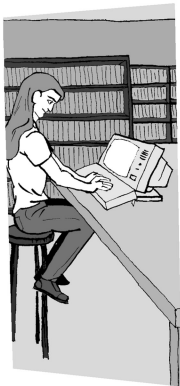

*Pfp-
pffpfffp --!*

I sense a
research
expedition to
the university
library in our future.

And guess
who I was thinking
would
drive us
there?

Hey,
I'm
up
for
it!

Parliament Buildings,
Saturday, July 1,
3:42 a.m.:

Just be glad I
wore my
flats.

First, we tape
the receiver to
the pole ...

Then we wrap
the pole in Primacord® ...

And we're ready!

Isn't the driver
supposed to wait in the
getaway car?

I know,
but I look
much cooler
like this.

*Downtown alley,
Saturday, July 1,
8:58 p.m.*

*Our heroes make necessary final
preparations...*

Pfp-
pffp-
fffp--!

Is it time yet?
Huh? Now? Huh?
How about now?
Yeah? Now?

It's
time.

Yes!

Thus resolved, the self-proclaimed Friday Knights issue their chilling war-cry:

Doing stupid things in public for no reason at all!

Parliament Buildings,

9:14 p.m.

Patriotic citizens enjoy the Canada Day fireworks . . .

Central Command,
9:50 p.m.:

Home again, home
again, jiggedy-jig!

Nothing to do now
but wait for the
media reaction.

If
any.

We took action.
We can't let
ourselves despair.

Yeah! If at first
you don't secede --

-- try, try again!
